Job Jagsworth came to Punk ville's shore upon a breezy autumn day, and then he went to Corker's store and said. "I've settled here to stay. A check I looked for isn't here, but it will come-it's overdue; so I must ask of you, I fear, some credit for a week or two." Old Corker INSURANCE WORKERS scratched his snowy head, and took a paper from a hook; "I have a letter here," he said, "informing me that you're a crook. ON WILHELM VOM RATH

Former Attache of German Embassy Here Rewarded for Distinguished Services Under Fire.

Wilhelm vom Rath, formerly a member of the German embassy staff here, has been awarded the iron cross, be-cause he distinguished himself by penetrating both French and Russian lines This news has reached the embassy here and has been welcomed by a large circle of friends with whom both Mr. Vom Rath and his flancee Miss Cecelia Jacqueline May, were very popular. Mr. Vom Rath, who left Newport last August immediately upon the declaration of war, distinguished himself in the early stages of the campaign on the French frontier. Under heavy fire, he penetrated the French lines, and, after successfully performing the task assigned to him, returned to his regiment was in action on the Russian frontier he repeated this performance. Later, as a dispatch bearer, he earned great distinction by his daring and bravery. The order of the Iron cross followed his feat in France.

Health Was Impaired.

Continued service under hazardous conditions resulted several weeks ago in his being invalided to his home at Frankfort, Germany, where Miss May is passing the winter with his parents. Although he has escaped so far without a wound, the ordeal of months in out a wound, the ordeal of months in the trenches, coupled with the demands made upon him in the performance of extremely important commissions, told upon his general health, and an order for a respite was issued by the regimental medical staff.

The latest reports state that Mr. Vom Rath has sufficiently recovered to join the regiment of dragoons now operat-ing on the Russian frontier, to which he is attached.

The marriage of Miss May, who is the younger daughter of Col. and Mrs. Henry May of this city, and Mr. Vom Rath, which friends here heard might take place at Frankfort during the Christmas holidays, according to members of the family, will not under ordinary circumstances take place until the close of the war.

Prince Cantacuzene Wounded.

Scarcely less thrilling to Washington have been the reports of the heroic performances of Prince Michael Cantacuzene, who for heroism in action with troops during the campaign in Galicia recently received a decoration from the Tsar of Russia. Prince Cantacuzene, who is attached to the Russian general staff, of which the Grand Duke Nicholas of Russia is chief, is recuperating from wounds received in Princess Cantacuzene was Miss Julia Dent Grant. She is a daughter of Mrs. Grant and the late Brig. Gen. Fred-erick Dent Grant, U. S. A., and a grand-daughter of President U. S. Grant.

It was decided to refer to the executive committee a communication from Representative Gardner urging the indorsement of the Board of Trade of his efforts to bring about the creation of a national security commission to inquire into the state of preparedness of the United States forces.

To the committee on charities and corrections was referred a communication urging the creation of a commit-tee to make arrangements for the housing of the residents of the alleys of the city who will be rendered home-less when the law prohibiting dwell-ings in alleys becomes effective in 1918.

Arrangements for the celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the organization of the Board of Trade at the meeting to be held January 14 were discussed. It was stated that M. M.
